Scott's Monument. This handsome monument, erected in 1810-1 at a cost of £15,560, ranks as one of the finest Gothic monuments of modern times. It stands 200 feet high, and was built from designs by an almost unknown architect, Geo. Kemp. The statue it enshrines was executed by Sir John Steell, R.S.A., in grey Carrara marble. A chamber in the spire is used as a museum for Scott relics.
